

Mom and Baby Special Services

The JPS Mom & Baby program helps and supports women with current or past substance use disorders while they are pregnant and/or parenting a child under the age of six.

We provide services that help women get community resources including:

- Early prenatal care
- Mental health treatment
- Substance use treatment
- Support groups
- Parenting safety, life skills, and healthy lifestyle education services
- Peer support and recovery services

A case manager will assess for the following risk factors:

- Must have a current or past substance use disorder
- Must be pregnant and/or parenting a child under the age of six
- Must be a Tarrant County resident

What to expect after a referral has been made:

- A Mom and Baby case manager will contact you to determine if you are eligible.
- If you are eligible, you can enroll in case management services. Program enrollment is voluntary.
- The case manager will work with you to develop a personalized service plan, identify goals you want to accomplish, and connect you with resources you may need related to your pregnancy.
- Your case manager will meet with you to support you in working towards your goals.
- You will receive information, education, and community resource referrals.
- A “Mommies Program” is available for women who are currently in Opioid Treatment Services or need treatment services.
